A marani in Kardenakhi

Our marani stands in the village of Kardenakhi in Kakheti, where centuries-old tradition meets modern winemaking. Every bottle is made only from grapes grown in our own vineyards.

Akhoebi & Tsarapi
two microzones of the Kardenakhi PDO

Qvevri & European
two ways of making wine

One grape, two paths

Grapes from the very same vineyards, turned by two methods into two completely different wines.

Qvevri

THE TRADITIONAL GEORGIAN METHOD

The juice ferments with its skins and seeds in a clay qvevri buried in the ground, then rests on them for three to seven months. The wine gains structure, tannin and a long finish.

European

THE EUROPEAN METHOD

The juice leaves the skins at once, settles naturally and ferments in steel tanks at a controlled temperature. The wine stays fresh, fruity and light.

◆ Since 2013 the qvevri method has been on UNESCO's list of Intangible Cultural Heritage. ◆
